[286] Player: "I found a box of data cartridges."
[295] Zora (Female): "Let's see. These are old. Looks like correspondences between the pirates. Some bits here, some there, some... wait."
[338] Zora (Female): "This... this one's got the Amber Heights gate code on it. Just like the one I found earlier. And here's... a letter? Wait, this is from Graham. Oh, of all the..."
[296] Zora (Female): "Captain, he gave them the gate codes."
[297] Player: "He caused the attack."
[298] Player: "Graham isn't exactly known for his rationality."
[299] Player: "He must have needed to take out the executives."
[300] Zora (Female): "Yeah. He did. He really did."
[301] Zora (Female): "Watch it. That's our leader you're talking about. My friend."
[302] Zora (Female): "And their families? And all the hired help?"
[307] Zora (Female): "I know he's got his head in the clouds, but I always believed there was a core of good there. What the hell happened to live and let live?"
[304] Zora (Female): "Thank you for bringing this back, but I need some time. I gotta think. I'll let you know if I figure something out."