[64] Player: "Tell me about your missing coworker."
[65] velmaballard (Female): "Braxton. He's in charge of getting the fish fat but also making sure they don't get too many tumors."
[66] velmaballard (Female): "He's a real wizard with pharmaceuticals, but he has creative notions of working hours. Comes with living in a "free" colony, I guess."
[69] Player: "He'll come back eventually. You can't constrain a person's freedom."
[67] Player: "Don't you have rules about that sort of thing?"
[70] Player: "So find him and drag him out by his ears!"
[72] velmaballard (Female): "I can't keep working double shifts, either."
[97] velmaballard (Female): "We're not keen on rules for rules' sake around here. Means Braxton skips work sometimes, but it also means no company boss is telling me when I can take a shit."
[68] Player: "If you say so."
[73] velmaballard (Female): "I would if I weren't busy here picking up his slack."
[74] velmaballard (Female): "Since you don't seem to be constrained yourself, maybe you could check up on him. He lives in the apartments. "
[75] velmaballard (Female): "Tell him Velma said to get his lazy ass down here, or she might start noticing those extra drugs he's been taking from supply."
[99] velmaballard (Female): "Something else on your mind?"
[87] Player: "You said Braxton had been stealing drugs?"
[39] Player: "I'll talk to you later."
[88] velmaballard (Female): "Stealing's such a nasty word. Let's call it skimming."
[89] velmaballard (Female): "And yeah, let's just say I've noticed the sterobiotics we use for the fish would get used a little faster on Braxton's shifts. "
[91] Player: "Awfully nice of you not to say anything."
[92] Player: "Why didn't you turn him in?"
[93] Player: "You should've hung that sleazebag out to dry."
[94] velmaballard (Female): "We're not like those corporate towns where you get fined for sleeping on the wrong side of the bed. "
[95] velmaballard (Female): "Someone would've if this were a corporate town. But we pride ourselves on giving people a little breathing room."
[90] velmaballard (Female): "Besides, the Spacer's Choice stuff we use is cheap enough. And Braxton knows how to get the saltuna fat and mostly tumor-free. "