[2] Edger (Male): "A visitor? What an unexpected surprise! Please, come in, come in!"
[5] Player: "I'm looking for a man named Braxton. He supposedly came by here."
[7] Edger (Male): "I'm afraid we don't get many visitors out here - the raptidons and marauders scare off all but the boldest."
[28] Player: "Thanks. Don't mind if I do."
[6] Player: "Actually, I think I'll be going."
[8] Edger (Male): "And if you've braved them, you must be exhausted. Why don't you stay for dinner?"
[10] Player: "I'll pass."
[35] Player: "Are you sure you haven't seen Braxton? I heard he was delivering medicine to you."
[9] Player: "That would be great, thanks."
[29] Edger (Male): "Nonsense! We're too far from the safety of Stellar Bay to deny a traveler hospitality."
[36] Edger (Male): "I'm sure I would remember something like that! "
[31] Edger (Male): "Excellent! You've arrived at just the right time. My wife is putting the finishing touches on dinner."
[30] Edger (Male): "Stay for dinner, at least. I insist."
[37] Edger (Male): "Now, quit fretting yourself about that. Make yourself at home - dinner's almost ready."
[49] Edger (Male): "Now, please try to relax. Undue stress tends to spoil the meal, you know."
[32] Edger (Male): "Please, make yourself at home until it's ready."
[27] Edger (Male): "You must be famished! So are we, my friend, but one can't rush a fine meal."
[43] Player: "I'll keep myself occupied, then."