[230] Player: "What's next?"
[241] graham_bryant (Male): "I've already sent a team ahead to scout the press. One of our best. Meet them there and find out if they've been successful."
[245] Zora (Female): "You sent the Van Noys there, didn't you? For fuck's sake, Graham! We needed them in the ruins! Our people died out there!"
[246] graham_bryant (Male): "They went willing to fight for our cause. We need reinforcements. We need new recruits. The Van Noys saw the printing facility with the same importance as I."
[248] Player: "Spreading the word has to be priority number one. Otherwise how can this movement grow?"
[249] Player: "Do you two ever stop bickering?"
[251] graham_bryant (Male): "Exactly. I'm glad you see the truth of the matter, Captain."
[247] Player: "You could have sent them after backing Zora up, right?"
[253] Zora (Female): "I'm sure the dead understand, right?"
[250] Zora (Female): "Yes! You're damn right he could have, but he's so obsessed with preaching that he's become blind to our actual problems!"
[254] Zora (Female): "This is worth bickering over. The Iconoclasts can't keep their heads in the ground forever, or they're going to starve and die slow."
[252] Zora (Female): "Look, just... if the Van Noys are still alive, get them out of there. With Sanjar pressing the issue like this, I have a feeling we'll need them."
[256] Player: "I'll do everything I can."
[258] Player: "The printing press comes first."
[257] Player: "No promises."